Psychology Department

Mission Statement

The Psychology Department of The College of William & Mary is committed to the development, dissemination, and application of new knowledge in the psychological sciences. Consistent with this commitment, the Department strives to attract and support a faculty that is nationally and internationally recognized for excellence in research. The Department also strives to provide excellent undergraduate and graduate programs of study in the psychological sciences. Our goal is for students at all levels to develop knowledge and critical thinking skills through didactic, laboratory, and practical training experiences, and hence, an understanding of the relationships among theory, research, and application.
